

Can you find any similarities and differences between where people live in France and where the mountains, seas and flat land are?